Building Space For Business Since 1981

Summer 2004

We've Moved!

After 10 years in our little building in Tigard, we have taken a big step and purchased a larger property on Barbur Boulevard. After working through all the details and hassles of moving, I think we all agree that we either have to move more often—or never again! A ten-year accumulation of “stuff” is overwhelming, but we're glad to have the move behind us now.

Our new “home” offers more than twice the office square footage and a large fenced storage yard. Visitors will appreciate the ample parking and the convenient location at the intersection of Barbur Boulevard (Pacific Highway) and I-5. The property was occupied for many years by Kurisu International and is recognizable by its distinctive pine trees, pruned in the Japanese style. Our plan is to improve the building over the next few months and to have our signage visible from the freeway.

Next time you're in the neighborhood, stop by and I'll give you the “three-dollar tour.” Our phone numbers remain unchanged, but our new address is:

11125 SW Barbur Blvd.

Portland, Oregon 97219-8629

Please update your records, if you haven't already done so.

I hope to see you soon.

Our new headquarters at 11125 SW Barbur Boulevard in Portland, Oregon.

This 5,000-square-foot concrete block building was designed by RAR Architects and developed by Hunt Leigh Development Vancouver LLC. It is the new location for Sherwin-Williams in Vancouver, Washington.

The Sirrah Office Building is a 4,800-square-foot office structure designed by the JHC team in conjunction with David Bissett and Associates Architects. The owner, Bud Harris, lives next door to the job site and kept close watch on our progress.
